

A 1960's home was completely transformed into a luxurious contemporary family home by opening up a collection of small rooms to create large living spaces with clean lines. A new skillion roof and generous expanses of louvered windows with external blinds improved the natural lighting and ventilation of the home, whilst also providing privacy and sun shading. The end result is a stunning contemporary family home where form and function are seamlessly integrated.

Photographer: Justin Alexander