

Perched high on the hills in Clifton Gardens with sweeping views over Sydney Harbour, this modest 1950's red brick house has been transformed into a contemporary family home with a relaxed casual feel.

The exteriors are a combination of painted rendered walls, stained timber cladding and natural sandstone cladding. The interiors are warm and inviting and feature dark stained oak floors, off white walls and wallpaper.

Photographer: Richard Glover