

With an enviable waterfront location overlooking Cremorne Point and Sydney Harbour, a single residence was converted into two luxury apartments. A lift was incorporated to connect both apartments to the garage level and both apartments were reconfigured to provide a better connection of spaces, clear views and extended sight lines.

Internally, interiors were upgraded by installing herringbone timber floors with dark timber paneling encapsulating the kitchen, laundry & powder room, forming the central core of each apartment. The use of dark paneling & natural stone bring warmth and steel-framed glass doors allow rooms to be closed off, for privacy and better air control.

The end result speaks for itself with both apartments exuding a timeless contemporary luxury with a focus on harbour views and light.

PHOTOGRAPHER | TOM FERGUSON

