

This project involved transforming a derelict, heritage listed 1880's Victorian terrace house into a modern luxury residence worthy of its location with stunning views of the Opera House, Harbour Bridge and Sydney Harbour.

The project involved the internal reconfiguration of existing rooms, new additions and the external restoration of existing elements to match the new with contemporary detailing such as wooden slats and steel beams.

This is a classic example of transforming the worst house on the best street into the best house.

Photographer: Craig Bryant