

This intimate apartment set out to create connections between indoor and outdoor living, while simultaneously creating larger, more liveable spaces within. The interior palette of warm greys and soft pinks were selected to create a welcoming atmosphere. The use of decorative cornices, panelled doors, natural stone and textural wallpaper make the apartment feel more like a home and the functionality of the design lends itself to the specific needs of the family.

PHOTOGRAPHER | TOM FERGUSON

