

Located on a steep site, this modern five-level home was designed to maximise the views and take advantage of its northern orientation.

The building's form combines horizontal bands of rendered masonry which are complimented by a vertical double height glazed entry volume. A large skillion roof completes the building and provides shade to the outdoor terraces.

PHOTOGRAPHER | CRAIG BRYANT

