

Located on a steep north facing waterfront site, this house has been designed to take advantage of a difficult site and maximise water views. The house has been designed as a modern contemporary styled home built from rendered masonry walls, sandstone clad walls and stained timber cladding. A central courtyard ensures light reaches rooms facing the hillside. Clean lines and a restrained palette of materials ensure that the magnificent views take precedence over the built form.

PHOTOGRAPHER | STEVE BACK

